LAKE COUNTY - The Lake County Board of Commissioners approved awarding a bid contract to Biohabitats Inc. for the Morley Stream Restoration Project in Concord Township at its June 30 meeting.

"This project is being done in coordination with the Engineer's Office and Chagrin River Partners, and a lot of this will be covered by a grant received by working with that particular agency," Board President Dan Troy said.

The county had secured ODOT FY-16 financing from the state in the amount of $495,281 to allow the removal of the Morley Road Dam and reconstruction of a culvert at L'Alouette Plumee Lake.

Bruce Landeg, chief deputy engineer and chief surveyor with the Lake County Engineer's Office, previously described the project as follows: "Lake County is proposing to remove the Morley Road dam, and the impounded L'Alouette Plumee Lake, and restore a stream in Concord Township, Lake County. The removal of Morley Road dam will include gradual dewatering of the lake via a siphon or other mechanical means, removal of the existing vertical riser/culvert structure to eliminate impoundment, and placement of a new culvert. The County will also restore approximately 650 linear feet of stream channel and 2.24 acres of riparian corridor within the existing lake bed."

Biohabitats' bid was $191,230, the same as the engineer's estimated cost.
