for the Redbird Road Phase I Storm Sewer Project; that project was estimated at $915,400. LCSWMD is contributing $500,000 to the project, with the balance being paid for by OPWC and Madison Township.

The low bid was $825,700 and the high bid was $1,070,059.44.

PUBLIC COMMENT

- Thomas Underwood of the fair contracting staff of the Laborers-Employers Cooperation and Education Trust addressed the commissioners.

(Note: According to the LECET website at <http://ohiolect.org>, the organization's history and purpose is as follows: "In 1995 the Laborers' District Council of Ohio and the Ohio Contractors Association laid the groundwork for Ohio LECET. The concept was one of cooperation — that Laborers and Union Contractors had to find ways to promote the highway construction industry and the role played by Union contractors and Union Laborers.

Since then LECET has participated in the legislative passage of new gas taxes, project promotion with our contractors, prevailing wage enforcement, and efforts like our Work Zone Safety Campaign.")

Underwood said LECET was working with county commissioners to ensure they were prepared to have road use maintenance agreements ready to have enacted with any drilling companies that would wish to commence drilling projects which could damage roads.

"I noticed in a lot of the southern counties, they were caught off guard and they didn't have the road use agreements in place," Underwood said.

He felt the counties should be prepared since large-scale drilling (such as for fracking) operations could damage roads. The agreement would require the drilling company to restore the roads to their original condition at the company's cost.

The agreements would be between the commissioners, county engineer, local officials and the drilling company.

The commissioners noted there had not been any requests for such drilling operations to date in the county.
