

About the Conference

In 2010, Lake Health, the Lake County General Health District, and several other community partners surveyed over 2,000 Lake County residents to capture their opinions about their personal health and the quality and access to health services in Lake County. The 2010 Lake County Community Health Assessment identifies issues that the residents of Lake County would like to see addressed by Lake County's health services.

The 2010 Lake County Community Health Assessment: Identifying Needs and Developing Innovative Public Health Responses will give the health care professional a unique opportunity to learn about the health concerns of Lake County residents, and develop ideas as to how they can promote positive outcomes in the clinic, school, worksite, and throughout the community.

Who Should Attend: This educational conference is designed to address the specific public health interests of health professionals including, but not limited to: nurses (RN, LPN), dietitians, primary care physicians, social workers, certified health education specialists, public health administrators, teachers, and educators.
