5. The Court recommends a deviation to the amount of $_____ per month, per child, when private health insurance IS being provided, or $_____ per month, per child, when private health insurance IS NOT being provided.

6. The reasons for the deviation are based on the following findings of fact:

7. If the deviation is based on in-kind contributions, the value of the in-kind contribution is $_____ per month, per child.

8. Based upon these facts, the Court approves the deviation and finds that it would be unjust or inappropriate, and not in the best interests of the children, to apply the child support obligation pursuant to statute. The deviation is approved.
