

HEROES at Home

Heroes at Home was launched by Rebuilding Together and Sears Holdings in May 2007. Heroes at Home strives to improve the lives of all low-income U.S. service members, veterans, and military families in need across America by making necessary repairs, improvements, and modifications to their homes.

The donations for Heroes at Home are collected by Sears and Kmart through in-store fundraising campaigns. To date, these campaigns have generated nearly $4 million in donations. This funding is distributed by the National Office through an affiliate grant process. As more donations are collected, the number of Heroes at Home projects will also increase.

Since the inception of Heroes at Home, Rebuilding Together affiliates have been able to complete nearly 50 Heroes at Home projects and are taking on over 140 more projects in the spring of 2008.
